

How to land your first freelance client in 24 hours

How to get your first client in 24 hours:

This is not theory. Many freelancers did this when starting out.

You don't need experience or case studies or live in a first world country.

Do this and...

I GUARANTEE you'll get your first client.

I know you want to see the method already.

So let's make a deal.

I'll get to it in 11 lines of text. But you HAVE to read it and not skim the text. Otherwise it won't work.

Deal?

Great.

Let me quote the entrepreneur/writer Jim Rohn here:

"We've all heard the expression: 'An Apple a day keeps the doctor away'

Well I have a question for you: what if it's true? Wouldn't that be easy to do - to eat an apple a day? Here's the problem: it's also easy not to."

The reason I'm telling you this is...

The method I'm going to show you is easy to do. But it's also easy not to do.

You have to do this. Not read passively.

Deal?

Here's the method. As promised:

Call up 3-5 people THAT YOU KNOW.

Ask:

"Do you know anyone who needs a website?"

THAT'S IT.

Simple to do. Simple not to do.

I know, I know. It's not a 6-figure client or unicorn SaaS.

But it's way ahead of where you'll be if you don't do anything.

Like all video games - take it one level at a time. You'll fail if you jump to level 100.

And if you do a good job for that one client?

You'll get referrals. The client will refer you to other people who need websites. And you're good.

If the client doesn't refer you, now you have a real word case study to put on your portfolio. Now you can start reaching out to other people with a much higher chance of success.

The best part?

The you before that call and the you now?

Two different people. When you "sell" someone on your own you'll gain confidence like never before. Because you did it all yourself.

You learned how to talk to clients. You made a real world project from zero to an app that's actively used.

The only way to go is up.

Now...

Let me give you two different scenarios.

1. You call up a business owner you know.

Ask if he needs a website.

2. You call a friend/relative and ask whether they know someone who needs a website.

They'll connect you to someone they know. AND THEY DO.

Understand? Then...

If you feel like you're not confident enough...

Just do it for free.

You'll get experience and confidence. And more importantly:

A case study that'll open doors to your next clients.

Now. One more thing:

You need to commit..

Tell me you'll make that silly little phone call.

24 hours. I'd say today but you might be reading this at night.

Do it.

Just do it.

It will change your life. I guarantee.

And hey.

One last thing...

Your uniqueness comes from this:

1. You know how to use Next13. You can build websites that load instantly. That's a unique selling point.
2. You can build anything. And you can do it on your own.
3. With your skills after this course? You can charge for amazing and complex apps. So you've got this. Promise.
